It is too grave and improved one afternoon, and friever came out portant a matter to be left to the change of hand opposition to it should be rea-onable and nealigent and unwary voting in the excitement and distractions of a general election. If the amountment should be again submitted to the people they should have an opportunity to vote upon it at a special election called for that purpose.

When the Scott liquor law was to he con tested a second time in the Ohio Supreme Court, Gov. Hoadly, according to the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, sent for "an eminonlattorney to argue against its constitution ality, and offered him a substantial fee, which 'had been but in the governor's hands by the Liquer Deslers' Association, if he would do so." The lawyer declined the offer, and expresent his belief in the constitutionality of the law. This attempt of a this magistrate to nyeithrow a statute which the highest court had once approved, and which has proved salutary and effect ve, is a new illustration of the fact that men sometimes feel free in office to practiwill be there, all the same.
